Hardy Chrysanthemums

The Best List of Garden Mums in the U. S.

FIELD GROWN CHRYSANTHEMUMS ARE SAFE

Based on observations that we have made during many years of experience with Hardy Mums, some definite conclusions may be drawn. Most important is the virtual elimination of any prospect or stunt — when you plant a stolon (division) from a stunt free field grown stock plant.

Everybody is entitled to an opinion on stunt. Our theory is that when a Chrysanthemum doesn't receive the benefit of its natural dormancy and when it has undergone the rigors of intensive forcing (sometimes for a succession of years) the resistance and growing capacity is lessened to such a degree that stunt — and to a certain extent, dormancy — occurs during the season when the best natural development should be taking place.

IT IS MOST ECONOMICAL TO BUY FIELD GROWN CHRYSANTHEMUMS

As a general rule, unless the variety is by nature a restrictive producer, the cost of obtaining Chrysanthemum stock will not exceed 3 cents per unit — normally a great deal less — when field grown plants are purchased and individual stolons are transplanted to the field. Make any comparison and see the BARGAIN!!

IT IS MORE SATISFACTORY TO BUY FIELD GROWN PLANTS

In every respect — uniformity, quality and brilliance of substance — a Chrysanthemum propagated and planted through natural methods is a better plant. It may sound like very simple logic — that is what is intended — isn't that often the best logic?

TRAFFIC STOPPERS

Throughout the years, many of our friends in the general nursery trade have purchased Chrysanthemums as "TRAFFIC STOPPERS." Consider the billboard attraction of a multi-hued block of Mums. If you have frontage and don't avail yourself of this opportunity to bring in customers, you are "missing a bet."

Several instances have arisen where our nursery friends being totally unfamiliar with the many varieties of Chrysanthemums will rely upon our judgment to supply them with a good starting selection. Many times this is much more satisfactory than attempting to scan the list and order by hit or miss methods. Your price factor and the varieties that will sell and show for you are the main consideration in making your selection.

We extend a sincere invitation to you to draw on our years of experience in the hardy mum field, in helping you to get started with the best advertising you could possibly arrange for and in a venture certain to be pleasing and profitable. Quality plant material and reasonable prices is a combination that can't be overlooked to increase your sales.

Where Good Plants and Good Friends Get Together —

Dear Friends:

Once again we are pleased to extend our gratitude to you, our customers, for your sincere appreciation of our efforts during the past years. We have in the past, and will make every attempt in the future to continue supplying quality merchandise at a fair price.

Our fields again this year have been entirely treated with Dieldrin, rendering us a completely certified nursery in accordance with the Federal quarantine regulations. You as a customer can reap the benefits of this treatment whether you are in or out of the beetle zone. The fact is easily recognizable that the transmission of unwanted pests and insects is virtually eliminated. It is also evident in our own plantings that the material has a better chance for development thereby giving you a nicely finished item.

When looking thru our book we might ask that you note the fine values in such things as Artemesia Silver Mound, Ajuga Brockbanki, Daisy Border Queen, Forsythia Lynwood Gold, Hibiscus, Penstemon, The New Lythrums, Teucrium, and, of course, what we consider the most extensive and finest list of Hardy Chrysanthemums in the trade.

We look forward to the opportunity of serving you during this coming Fall season. All things considered, shipping risk is minimized, time is saved, and a splendid opportunity to be ready for the rush of Spring business is afforded during the Fall season.

Sincerely
